

Kevin Lyons

Health Benefits Coordinator
New Jersey State Policemen's Benevolent Association
Woodbridge, New Jersey

Mr. Lyons is a retired police detective from the Long Beach Twp. Police Department in Ocean County, New Jersey who currently serves as the health benefits coordinator and legal protection plan administrator for the New Jersey State Policemen's Benevolent Association, an association made up of just under 32,000 active law enforcement officers. Several years ago, he was tasked with representing all municipal and county law enforcement officers on the New Jersey State Health Benefits Design Committee. Collaborating with both labor and management, Mr. Lyons has been a part of commonsense disruptive changes to the health care delivery system that have yielded over $3 billion to members and taxpayers alike. Recently, he was asked to serve on Governor Murphy's State Health Benefits Quality and Value Task Force to develop a roadmap for future changes to the state health benefits plan where every aspect of public employee health benefits is evaluated. Mr. Lyons has been serving on the Southern Regional Board of Education in Manahawkin, New Jersey for many years. He holds a B.S. degree in criminal justice from Stockton University.
